

Casey Sullivan

Letter of Recommendation 2

---

To the Admission Committee,

I write this letter in strong support of Casey Sullivan, who has been a student in my Advanced Music Theory class for the past year. Casey is a student whose passion for music shines through in every assignment and discussion. It's rare to encounter a young individual so deeply engaged with the world of music, not just as an art form but as a framework for understanding life.

Casey's SAT score of 1270 and GPA of 3.3 may not make them the top academic student in the class, but they stand out in unique ways. They bring a level of emotional maturity and a sense of community to everything they do. They are a member of our school's Acapella Group and have used that platform to bring together different sections of our school community, reinforcing the values of harmony and unity.

Moreover, Casey is an astute problem-solver, always trying to understand the underlying principles in complex musical compositions, much like they have in my class. Their coursework often reflects a nuanced grasp of musical elements, and they are not afraid to dive deep into complex topics. They also bring a strong sense of faith and spirituality to their music, often intertwining the two in a way that reflects their deeply held values.

On a personal note, what impresses me the most about Casey is their dedication to community service. They actively volunteer at the local animal shelter, and their sense of responsibility and compassion is apparent in these endeavors as well.

In summary, Casey is a balanced individual, deeply engaged in both academic and extracurricular pursuits. Their strong values, coupled with their passion for music and community, will undoubtedly make them an asset to your academic institution. I highly recommend Casey Sullivan for your college program.

Warm regards,
Casey Sullivan's Advanced Music Theory Teacher